NEARLY 500 BANKS

In Kentucky at Beginning of New Year.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 20.—There are a total of 480 banks, trust companies and combined banks and trust companies in Kentucky at the beginning of 1911. Of this number there are 260 state banks with a capital of less than $25,000 each, about 115 state banks with a capital of from $25,000 to $50,000, about 50 state banks with a capital of $50,000 to $100,000, and about 35 with a capital of from $100,000 to $200,000, and about 20 with a capital ranging from $200,000 to $2,000,000.

Mr. Bruner said today he had determined to put all his own work aside and examine each banking institution in the state under his jurisdiction this year.

During the past two years deposits have increased from $56,500,000 to $70,500,000. On the whole, there are but few overdraws.

DAILY DEATH

Average is One Hundred and Fifty.

Advices from Fudziadian, the Chinese suburb of Harbin, state that the deaths there from bubonic plague average 150 daily. The epidemic is spreading to Muendin, Kirin and other places in northern China having commercial intercourse with Russia.

Affairs In Good Shape.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 20.—State Inspector McKenzie R. Todd has filed with the Governor his report of the inspection made of the Kentucky Children's Home Society, covering a period from June 1, 1909, to May 31, 1910.

Kentucky appropriates $30,000 annually to the maintenance of the home at 1086 Baxter avenue, Louisville. In addition to the $30,000, the report shows that between $16,000 and $18,000 annually is contributed by the citizens of the State of Kentucky, the total income being placed in the hands of a receiver about $46,000.

The inspector states that in addition to 1,470 children received and the replacing of children who have been returned to the home, 2,320 have been cared for since the organization of the society.

Explosion Injuries Nine.

Nine persons were injured in an explosion which wrecked a residence in the Italian district of Chicago as the result of the refusal of the tenant to comply with the demand for $500 sent in a "black hand" letter.

When you see a mountain pass it stays right where it is.

MR. CAUDLE GONE TO BEYOND

Prominent Farmer Suffers
Relapse of Pneumonia
Which Causes Death.

AN EXCELLENT CITIZEN.

Funeral Services Held Thursday and Remains Interred
In Riverside Cemetery.

Mr. J. R. Caudle died at his home near Julian Wednesday afternoon. He had been ill of pneumonia, but was able to be up and visited this city one day last week. In a day or two a relapse came and the end followed in a short time.

Mr. Caudle was 78 years old and leaves a wife and one child, Emmett Caudle. He was a native of Virginia, having been born in Appomattox county, and came to Christian county, Ky., in 1852. Some years later he purchased a farm near Julian, the present home place, and was very successful, amassing a fortune.

He was a man of great energy and took an active interest in the affairs of the county and its interests. He was a large stockholder in the Planters Hardware Co., of this city, and held the office of vice-president of the company. He was for forty or more years Captain of the Christian County Hunting Club, whose annual visits to Mississippi, Arkansas and other hunting grounds were so much enjoyed by its members.

Mr. Caudle was a member of the Methodist church and was a most excellent citizen, who will be greatly missed by his host of friends.

His funeral services were held at his late residence Thursday morning, conducted by Rev. G. W. Lyon of this city, and the interment took place in Riverside Cemetery.

Former Matron Dead.

News has been received of the death in Howell, Ind., last Sunday, of Miss Mary A. Hollingsworth. Miss Hollingsworth was born and raised in Todd County, but went to Louisville a number of years ago, where she was made matron of the Baptist Home, of that city. This position she held for thirty-six years and retired only when she felt the need of a rest. It is said that during her administration as matron, several thousand children were received and cared for until private homes could be provided for after they had arrived at the age of responsibility, and that there was never a death in the institution.

I. C. Files Suit.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 20.—Because of the alleged failure of the Gulf Compres company to deliver cotton for which bills of lading had been issued, the Illinois Central Railroad company has entered suit against the Fidelity & Guaranty company of Maryland, seeking to recover $30,000, the amount of losses which the railroad company asserts they sustained on account of the non-delivery of the staple. The Guaranty company, it is set forth, warranted that the railway would suffer no losses while acting as carrier for the Compress company, which recently was placed in the hands of a receiver.

Bride Disappears.

Paducah, Ky., Jan. 18.—A bride of but six weeks, Mrs. Ida Northington, 19 years old, disappeared from her home in Ballard county last night while her husband and her father's family were eating supper. She was reputed to be one of the prettiest girls in Ballard county. She and "Ham" Northington were married just six weeks ago and no trouble had marred their honeymoon. Her mysterious disappearance is not understood. Police departments of surrounding towns and cities were notified today to watch for her.

SABEL-HORN.

Hopkinsville Merchant Weds
In Evansville, Ind.

An attractive wedding was solemnized Tuesday evening at the orthodox synagogue, Sixth and Vine streets, when Miss Fannie Horn, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Horn of this city, and Mr. Max Sabel, of Hopkinsville were united in marriage at 7:30 o'clock, says the Evansville Courier.

Rabbi Speir officiated with all the impressiveness of the orthodox. He brew ritual, the wedding procession passing through the church to the music of the Lohengren wedding march.

The bride is a blonde of winsome personality and is a graduate of the high school of the class of '05. She is a decided favorite in an extended circle of friends by whom she has been much entertained with a number of prenuptial affairs in her honor during the week before the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Sabel left on the midnight train for Memphis and other southern points for the bridal journey and after their return will reside in Hopkinsville, where the groom is a prominent merchant.

Knudson-Morris.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Knute O. Knudson, who formerly lived in West Pullman, and who was acquitted in 1907 of the charge that he murdered his wife, was married Tuesday at midnight to Miss Addie Morris, of Hopkinsville, Ky. The ceremony, performed by the Rev. R. Keene Ryan, pastor of the Garfield Presbyterian church, was witnessed by little Anna Knudson, who figured as the star witness for her father at the murder trial.

Miss Morris has been in Chicago only six months, and the marriage was a matter of love at first sight, it is said.

Crumbee-Shamwell.

Clarksville, Tenn., Jan. 19.—Radford Crumbee and Miss Jennie Shamwell, a runaway couple from Todd county, were married here yesterday. The couple came in on the 8:46 train from Guthrie. The groom is about 25 years old and has just completed an enlistment in the United States cavalry. He was honorably discharged at San Francisco a week ago. The bride is about 19 years old and a member of a prominent Kentucky family.

Atwood-Duncan.

Julian L. Atwood, a popular young business man of Cadiz, and Miss Florence Duncan, daughter of Mr. J. D. Duncan, of this city, were married at the home of the bride's parents, No. 604 Walnut street, at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. Rev. H. D. Smith performed the ceremony. They left for Cadiz shortly after the marriage.

Akin-Robertson

Dr. C. O. Akin, of Princeton, and Miss Fannie C. Robertson, of Wallonia, were married at Hotel Latham Wednesday afternoon. They left at once on a bridal tour of several Southern states and on their return they will go to housekeeping in Princeton.

VICTIM OF MEASLES

Mrs. Cobb Passes Away After Brief Illness.

She is survived by her husband and four children. Mrs. Cobb was a member of the Christian church. Her funeral services were held at noon yesterday by Rev. Henry West and the interment took place in the Gray burying ground, near Fairview.

South Trimble, of Frankfort, is conceded to be a winner in the race for clerk of the next House.

The Democrats had a great time, at Baltimore Tuesday night celebrating the victories of last November.
Champ Clark, Gov. Harmon and Joe Blackburn were among the chief orators.

It is by no means certain that the proposed joint debates between Senator
McCreary and Congressman
Johnson will be held. There is a bitch in the arrangements of preliminaries.

Governor-elect Ben. W. Hooper,
Republican, will be inaugurated at Nashville Jan. 25, with much pomp and ceremony. An agreement has been made that no obstructive tactics will be employed by the Democrats.

Prof. Barksdale Hamlett, Hopkinsville's candidate for State Superintendent of schools, is making many friends in the purchase. The Paducah News-Democrat says: "The press of the state has been specially kind to Prof. Hamlett and the general encouragement which he is receiving from every section of the state, proves conclusively that he is a formidable candidate in the race for this important office. He is eminently qualified for the position which he seeks and his record as an educator has been one of uninterrupted success. It is due to him that the handsome new Christian county and Hopkinsville High School building is now a permanent reality, having been erected under the Sullivan Law at a cost of $100,000."

The American Magazine.

The general excellence of The American Magazine is what appeals to the reader. Experts in the business say that no periodical now published is attracting more attention, or winning more enthusiastic approval, than The American Magazine. It is a publication which exhibits unusual energy, liveliness, candor, courage, and humor. No one who reads it can ever forget its distinctive qualities. It is as much of a "character" as exists anywhere—and a most intelligent and delightful "character" too.

One of the great achievements of The American Magazine is its contribution to national journalism through its important and authoritative fact-articles, now running, by Ida M. Tarbell, Ray Stannard Baker, A. J. Nock and other writers, all of whom are the ablest experts in the country in their special fields.

Another remarkable characteristic of The American Magazine is the quality of its fiction, plus the story quality that is to be found in many of its articles. By this is meant the fact that this particular periodical requires that many of its most important articles to be in story form. In this manner the pages of the whole magazine fairly teem with downright human interest. The facts are gathered and presented with the most scrupulous attention to truth, but in the presentation the art of story-telling is summoned, and the result is the finest quality of journalism that exists—that which both informs exactly and entertains wonderfully. Not many journalists of this rare double ability are strolling up and down the world, yet several of them are in the exclusive employ of The American Magazine.

Three great original departments have been created by the American Magazine—"Interesting People," "The Interpreter's House" and "The Pilgrims' Script." Any particular number of the magazine may contain a wonderful fiction story, or a beautiful picture, or a great article that will interest you more than these departments. And yet those famous departments form a great attraction in the periodical. They are always there—filled to the brim with ideas, emotions, and aspirations. There is a curious flavor in them—singularly new, pleasing and genuine.

On the whole The American Magazine is winning great favor because of its sound tone of real optimism—not silly, flat and fake optimism; but that optimism which is founded on the solid truth that you ought to do your job well wherever you are, and that if you do do your job well you will get some sort of a reward for it here on earth—not necessarily money (which most of us foolishly use as the only yardstick of success), but perhaps an inner feeling of satisfaction which, if your skin is not too tough, may be transferred and exhibited in a gentle face—something decent to look at, and not calculated to scare all the affection out of those who come into daily contract with you.

This is a poor and inadequate statement which only partially covers the ground. It is only meant to be a sort of reflection on what seems to be the moving spirit back of the American Magazine. It is nothing but impression which the writer feels after reading and enjoying The American Magazine for a year or more.

BUYS FINE JACKS

Capt. J. W. Riley Purchases
Blue-Blooded Animals.

Capt. J. W. Riley, of Newstead, has returned from Southern Tennessee, where he bought two very fine jacks to add to his stock farm. One of these is one of the noted taxpayer strain and the price was away up in figures. It is probably the most expensive jack ever brought to Christian county.

Could Not Write.

Versailles, Ky.—Mrs. Elisha Green of this place, says, "I could not write all the different pains I had, when I first tried Cardui. I could scarcely walk. Now I am able to run the sewing machine and do my work; and my neighbors tell me the medicine must be good, for I look so much better." Cardui is a specific, pain-relieving, tonic remedy, for women. In the past 50 years, it has been found to relieve women's unnecessary pains and female misery, for which over a million suffering women have successfully used it. Try Cardui for your troubles. It will help you. At the nearest drug store.

A $70,000 PEARL

Flawless Gem Recently Exhibited In Bond Street.

According to an English newspaper, London has missed the opportunity of acquiring one of the finest pearls in the world.

This specimen, which is said to be worth £14,000 (70,000), and was recently on exhibition in the window of a well known Bond street jeweler, has been sent to America. The pearl is about the size of a pea, and is absolutely flawless. In commenting on this one of the members of the firm that sold it said:

"The reason so many pearls have flaws is because when the oyster opens a little sand is apt to get into it, and this coming in contact with the pearl which is forming inside the shell, is liable to scratch it. Pearls generally are rising in price all the time, but this $70,000 specimen takes the highest value of which I am aware."

Geo. W. Crenshaw.

Mr. Geo. W. Crenshaw, one of the best young merchants Cadiz has turned out in many years, has severed his connection with the mercantile interest there and moved to Hopkinsville to make his home. He is associated with J. H. Anderson & Co. in their dry goods department. Mr. Crenshaw is a son of Dr. J. W. Crenshaw and the Kentuckian takes much pleasure in welcoming him to the city.

Governor Offers Reward.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 18.—Gov. Willson today offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of each and every member of the mob which lynched two negroes at Shively early Sunday morning. The Governor said today he knew nothing of the whereabouts of the negro West, who is now generally believed to have escaped from the mob.

GARNETT'S AMENDMENT

To Moon Bill Adopted by Unanimous Vote.

Washington, Jan. 19.—The house of representatives adopted an amendment to the Moon bill, modifying a law relating to the judiciary which will have the effect of stopping the practice of corporations doing an interstate business from taking practically all suits against them out of the hands of state courts and placing them in the federal courts.

The amendment was offered by Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, and after a preliminary skirmish in which party lines were tightly drawn, was finally adopted by practically a unanimous vote. The amendment in full is as follows:

"Provided, further, that no suit against a corporation or joint stock company brought in a state court of the state in which the plaintiff resides, or in which the cause of action arises, or in which the defendant has its place of business or carries on its business shall be removed to any United States court on the ground of diverse citizenship."

Mr. Garrett in explaining the amendment said it would prevent a New Jersey corporation, for instance from transferring state court suits against it to United States courts on the ground that the officers and directors of the corporation live in New York.

The amendment is regarded as an important one and called out a general debate.

The house also adopted an amendment offered by Representative Thomas, of Kentucky, fixing $5,000 instead of $2,000 as the minimum value that shall be involved in civil suits before the United States courts shall have original jurisdiction. This action was taken, it was stated, to relieve the federal courts from much litigation which might just as well be carried on in the state courts.

The value in suits to be removed from state courts to federal courts also was raised from $2,000 to $5,000.

A Kansas Bill.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 18.—J. E. Williams, representative from Logan county, introduced in the house to day a bill requiring that all brides and bridegrooms must have health certificates before they can obtain a marriage license. The bill provides that physicians must pass on candidates not more than ten days before the application for the license is made, and if he makes any false statement he is to be fined from $200 to $500, or be sent to jail for ninety days. Any official who issues the license and any clergyman or official who marries a couple without having the certificate may, under the bill, be fined from $100 to $300 and be sent to jail for from thirty days to six months.

Corn Selling Well.

Corn is bringing 45 cents delivered on the river bank. The dealers believe that it will steadily advance. Nat Stanley sold 6,200 bushels at 41 cents the bushel a few days ago.—Henderson Gleaner.

The apple is the aristocrat of foods and the best medicine.

The climate and conditions that are best for apples are best for man.

Anarchy never gathered fruit from its own apple tree.

Apple orchards are better nurseries of citizenship than the deck of battleships or military camps.

The man in the orchard is always a good citizen.

Horticulture is a science, not a guess.

The twentieth century is to be the age of the apple, and Colorado is to be the center of its empire.

The apple barrel is nature's medicine chest.

Apples are an antidote for drink and tobacco.

The road that leads to the orchard is the pathway to a simple, happy, prosperous life.—Denver News.

$100 REWARD $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease whose science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Cataract. Hall's Cataract Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Cataract being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Cataract Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have a much faith in its curative power that they offer One Hundred Dollars as a guarantee that it fails to cure. Send or wire to Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

RECORD BREAKER

Awesome Tale Spun By Accomplished Prevaricator.

A Logan's Ferry, Pa., correspondent tells this tall yarn:

One of the most curious evidences of the sagacity and gratitude of birds was given here today on the Puckett Creek farm of Tyson Pollet. Mr. Pollet is a man of sympathetic nature and has for years made a practice of protecting and feeding the birds which remain on his farm for the winter. The sight of the venerable agriculturist feeding swarms of birds on cold winter mornings has been a familiar one in this vicinity for years. Wherever Mr. Pollet goes some of the birds are certain to follow. This morning Mr. Pollet missed a fine young Hamiltonian colt, and a few hours later found it hopelessly mired in the middle of a quicksand bog of several acres extent, in a position that there was no possibility of rescue.

Returning to his house to procure his rifle to go and shoot the colt, he noticed that his friends, who were very much excited suddenly scattered away in all directions, uttering shrill cries. He thought nothing of the matter until he arrived at the edge of the bog, into which the colt had sunk by this time to his middle, when he was amazed to hear and see coming from all directions great flocks of birds, crows, sparrows, blackbirds, blue jays, game birds, hawks, and all the varieties which winter in the north. As Mr. Pollet stood wondering, the swarm of birds settled on the struggling colt, hiding him completely from view as in a cloud. A moment later, amidst a deafening chatter and with the whirling sound of myriads of wings, the entire mass arose, bearing the colt in the center, and without stopping flew in a direct line to Pollet's barn, where they set the terrified colt down in safety, flew around with glad cries a moment or so and then scattered to the woods.

AMUSEMENTS

"THE SQUAW MAN"

Among the small band of character actors who stand at the head of their profession in this country, there is none who occupies a more honorable position than Charles Foster who portrays the character of Tabbywana, Peace Chief of the Utes, in the great William Faverham success "The Squaw Man" written by Edwin Milton Royle, which comes to Holland's Opera House on Tuesday night, January 24.

As a master of the art of make-up, Foster has few equals and no superiors on our stage. Frequently, during performances of "The Squaw Man," auditors have been heard to offer wagers that he is a full-blooded Indian, so realistically true and startlingly life-like is his representation of the old Ute Chief. Mr. Foster, who has made a specialty of portraying Indian parts, the past ten years, is about six feet in height, and rather stockily built. He has the long straight-featured, plastic face that is so often met with among well known actors; a deep bass voice of a timbre naturally suited to the guttural Ute language of Tabbywana, though his nose serves merely as the groundwork for the big Chief's broad, hooked organ of smell. So thoroughly has Foster studied his subject that during his summer months several years ago, he lived among the Utes at their Reservation in Colorado and mastered their native tongue. Further than this he is religiously painstaking as witness the fact that it takes him one hour and fifty minutes before each performance to don his paints and putty for the make-up for his picturesque and perfect characterization of the old, battle-scarred Indian in "The Squaw Man."

MONSTROSITY

From Todd County on Exhibition Here.

Among a lot of poultry from Elkhorn, sold to the Peter Fox Sons Co., and shipped here this week, is a monstrosity in the shape of a three-legged rooster. The rooster had four legs, but one of them froze and dropped off. The bird's third limb grew out from the left hip and is about five inches in length, with perfect toes. The unnatural production is quite a curiosity and is attracting much attention. The rooster is of ordinary stock, but is a beautiful specimen.

Wilson on Warts.

Woodrow Wilson, though a college president, can speak in the language of the people. Hear this, referring to the fight on the old Jersey boss: "It is not a difficult or capital operation to cut off a wart. You don't have to administer an anesthetic. It can be done while you wait." Then the audience roared.—Herald.

HOPKINSVILLE KENTUCKIAN.

Dread Of An Operation.

N. Manchester, Ind.—Mrs. Eva Bachore, of this place, says, "I suffered from the misery of every description. Two doctors attended me, and advised an operation. I lost weight until I weighed only ninety pounds. I dreaded an operation, and instead, began to take Cardui. In a short time, I gained 25 pounds, and feel as well as I ever did. Cardui, I am sure, saved my life." Cardui is today used in thousands of homes, where it relieves pain and brings back strength and ambition. It is a woman's medicine, for women's ailments, and you are urged to try it for your troubles. Ask your druggist. He will tell you about Cardui.

Tale Of Two Cities.

Hopkinsville, Ky., and Clarksville, Tenn., are close enough for the citizens of one to shake hands with the citizens of the other after but a brief ride on the cars. Both are pioneer cities established when the Kentucky Purchase was open for settlement.

Clarksville was for many years the head of navigation on the Cumberland River, while Hopkinsville was the relay station for the wagon trains going from the Ohio River to Nashville and points South.

Clarksville had the incidental advantage of being on a navigable stream.

Hopkinsville has two railroads. Clarksville has the same two.

Both are in the same tobacco territory, and the soil surrounding both is alike. The citizenship is bound to be of the same stripe, as everybody in Clarksville is kin to everybody in Hopkinsville.

But Clarksville, which had 2,151 more inhabitants in 1900 than Hopkinsville, now has 871 less.

There is bound to be a reason for this. It may be because of the fact that Clarksville is in Tennessee, while Hopkinsville is in Kentucky. But there's not that much difference in states. It may be that Hopkinsville just naturally out-talked its Tennessee neighbor and started migration in that direction.

However it may be, sitting at a convenient distance, where rocks turn from one at another will not touch us, we give it as our opinion that the reason can be seen in the fact that the Hopkinsville administration has pursued a sane and safe policy on public matters, and has not permitted fanaticism to get the ascendancy. If ourd' actions are right, they ought to form a lesson for Clarksville, and perhaps for other cities.—Bowling Green Messenger.

Must Wear Kid Gloves.

Paducah, Ky., Jan. 18.—Chief of Police Henry Singery has issued an edict to the policemen that hereafter they must wear kid gloves, and within a week Beau Brummels will be plentiful in the department. The new caps ordered will be here next week. The chief also has warned the patrolmen against muddy boots, missing buttons and untidy uniforms. He will hold an inspection weekly.

Mrs. Cook Tells Truth

Dexter, Ky.—In a signed statement, Mrs. Cook tells the truth about how Cardui brought back her health and strength. She says, "I could not get any relief, until I tried Cardui, the woman's tonic. I suffered more or less for 10 years, and was so weak and nervous I could hardly do my house work. Now I am in better health than ever before, am regular as clock work, do not suffer at all, and gain strength every day." Thousands of women have been helped back to health by Cardui. Try it.

Nearly a Billion Spent.

Over eight million dollars were spent during the last ten years in support of miners' strikes, according to the report of President Lewis, given to the convention of the United Mine Workers of America at Columbus.

Two Dead Aeronauts.

Berlin, Jan. 18.—The German balloon, Hildebrandt, which had been missing since its ascent at Schmargendorf on December 29, was found in a lake in Pomerania province, Prussia. The bodies of both aeronauts were in the gondola.

CUMBERLAND BUYS FRANCHISE

Sale Made By The City Clerk
Thursday Morning at 10 O'clock.

PRICE PAID WAS $100

Long Drawn Out Controversy
Ends In The City Carrying Its Point

City Clerk H. W. Tibbs, by authority of the council, sold a telephone franchise Thursday at ten o'clock a. m. for a term of 20 years. It was bought by the Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co. for $100, there being no other bidders. Judge Hunter Wood bid in the franchise for the company.

The City, by the terms of the franchise, is to receive 11 telephones in the official offices free during the life of the franchise. The Cumberland now furnishes two free phones and the city pays for two others.

The Cumberland prior to 1902 operates under a 15 year franchise which expired, but the company claimed right to run under perpetual franchise bought from the East Tennessee Co. The council of 1902 made a contract which was rescinded by the council of 1908 and the present action is to put the company on a legal basis, after much controversy, awaiting decisions from other cities.

The franchise simply legalizes the present rates.

The less people know about you the more friends you will have.

HE CALLED ON PEGGY

Peggy had a presentiment about young Bemis. For days he had been trying in vain to find an evening when she could let him call. Now he had appealed to her by telephone in apparent desperation. Couldn't she possibly shift her engagements so as to receive him that night? It was a simple impossibility, he averred, to wait another twenty-four hours.

In the goodness of her tender heart Peggy kindly consented to stay at home and see the poor boy. He was too young to be wildly interesting, but evidently he was desperately interested in her and the sooner he should be put out of his misery the better.

The first time Peggy had ever dreamed of his thinking seriously of her was when he had asked her to his fraternity dance a few weeks before, but since that night his desire to have an interview with her at her home had seemed to be feverish and constant. She said to herself as she dressed for the evening that she must discourage the foolish boy. So she arranged her golden locks in the prettiest fashion and put on a distractingly becoming old-rose gown.

"Now," she resolved, as she showed her dimples to the vision in the mirror, "I must lead him away from the dangerous topic."

In pursuance of this womanly determination, about ten minutes after his arrival she bridged a pause in the conversation by remarking archly: "I hope you have an awfully good reason for insisting on coming to see me tonight."

Young Bemis flushed to the roots of his hair. "I—I—how's that?" he asked.

"There must be a good and sufficient reason why this call had to be paid tonight," she repeated, "because I gave up a perfectly good seat at the opera to let you come."

"What! Say, now, I'm ashamed of myself! I wish you had told me that when I phoned."

"I hadn't the heart," she answered, with downcast lid. "You—you seemed so frantic."

"Well, I know I was frantic, all right, but then—"

"You said tomorrow night wouldn't do at all," she added. "Naturally, I—wondered why."

Again that violent flush dyed young Bemis' face, but he made an attempt to speak lightly. "That's easy! I wanted to see you."

"But why wouldn't tomorrow night do?"

He hesitated.

"There must have been a reason," she coaxed.

"There was," he admitted.

"Do you mean to say you aren't going to tell me?"

He met her wide-eyed, innocent reproof. "I—I—don't dare."

"Of course you dare!"

"No; I don't know you well enough."

"Nonsense! We got awfully well acquainted that night at the dance."

"Yes, I know, we did famously, but I'm afraid we're not—oh, it wouldn't do! To tell you the truth, I did think when I was trying to get you to let me come that maybe I'd tell you everything tonight. It seemed to me as if I'd known you so much longer than I had. But on second thought I've changed my mind. It probably would have ended our friendship."

"Indeed, it could not! You might trust me enough for that."

"Oh, I trust you. But I can't run the risk of spoiling our friendship just as it's begun to be so pleasant."

"I tell you it shan't spoil our friendship!"

"Oh, you don't know."

"But I'll promise without knowing." He leaned forward eagerly. "I wonder, now! You're sure you could—understand?"

"I'm positive."

"Oh, I mustn't tell you," he broke off, drawing back. "It might change everything. I won't take chances now."

"Well, you certainly will spoil our friendship if you treat me like this."

"There!" he exclaimed in helpless alarm. "I've muddled things in fine shape! If I do tell you probably you'll never let me come here any more, and if I don't you're bound to be angry anyhow."

Peggy sat and looked at him with an absolutely irresistible pout. This was her own little way of discouraging a suitor and leading him away from the dangerous topic. Young Bemis withdrew that pout for ten seconds. Then—

"I suppose I've got to tell you," he blurted out. "There's a rule of our fraternity house that a fellow must call within a certain time on the girl he has taken to a dance or else pay a fine of $2, and tonight was my last chance to get here."

Irresistible.

Dr. Forbes Roberts Marshall of Cleveland had frequently visited Count Tolstol at Yassnaya Polyana, and the aged Russian's sensational flight from home last month affected him, therefore, with peculiar force.

"Count Tolstol," he said, "would never have left home like that, if he had not been eighty-two years old. He knew himself that age was weakening his splendid mind, and, on my last visit, he said, apropos of a eulogy of Gorky:

"When I was a young man I liked my praise in teaspoonsfuls. Now, in my old age, I am content to take it in ladies."

JUDGE FOUND TRUE BILL

Thought Dissenting Opinions Would Insure More Care in Preparation of Case.

One of the New England judges prepared an opinion in a certain case, and then sent it around to the other judges. In due time it came back with a vigorous dissenting note from one of the judges who had examined the opinion. The judge who prepared the opinion then wrote the dissenting judge as follows:

"I am glad you have made a dissent to the opinion in — vs. — for it insures more care at least in the preparation of the case."

"My feelings, however, are similar to those of the little fellow who, having in his morning devotion expressed the wish that the Lord might be able to make his brother Charley a good boy, in his evening prayer said: 'I still hope, Lord, that you can make Charley a good boy; but, to be frank with you, it don't seem to me the real Charley has changed a d—d bit since morning.'

SMOKING AMONG STUDENTS.

The degree of mentality attained by the non-smoking student is greater than that of the smoker, while, in physique the balance is in favor of the smoker. A compilation made of the members of one college class shows that during the period of undergraduate life, which is essentially 3½ years, the first group grows in weight 10.4 per cent. more than the second, and 11 per cent. more than the third; in girth of chest the first group grows 26.7 per cent. more than the second and 22 per cent. more than the third; in capacity of lungs the first group gains 77 per cent. more than the second and 49.5 per cent. more than the third. As a rule, the non-smoker is mentally superior to both the occasional and the habitual smoker. As a rule the non-smoker is equal, and probably slightly superior physically, to all members of the smoking classes except the athletes. It may well be queried as to whether the smoking athlete does not make his gain at too high a mental cost to make it pay.

LOWELL'S AUTOGRAPH.

Bliss Carman told at a dinner a story about James Russell Lowell and a bad boy. "A Boston woman," said Mr. Carman, "asked Lowell to write in her autograph album and the poet complying, wrote the line, 'What is so rare as a day in June?' Calling at this woman's house a few days later, Lowell idly turned the pages of the album until he came to his own autograph. Beneath it was written in a childish scrawl, 'A Chinaman with whiskers.'

PLAYING AN EASY PART.

Miss Lucy—I have given you sixpence, what more do you want?

Tramp—I'm afraid that policeman is going to arrest me.

Miss Lucy—How can I prevent that?

Tramp—Just take my arm, and be talking to me lovingly, and he will think I'm your husband and let me pass.
